

INTERIM SUSPENSION. In re Bradley J. Enna, No. 192, 2007 (Apr. 30, 2007).

By order of the Delaware Supreme Court dated April 30, 2007, Bradley J. Enna, Esquire, a member of the Delaware Bar, was immediately suspended from the practice of law, pending final disposition of lawyer disciplinary proceedings against him. The Court found that Enna had engaged in ethical misconduct and posed a significant threat of substantial harm to the public and to the orderly administration of justice. Enna consented to the entry of this order.

Pursuant to Rule 16 of the Delaware Lawyers' Rules of Disciplinary Procedure, the Office of Disciplinary Counsel filed a petition for interim suspension on April 17, 2007, on the grounds that Enna had been convicted in March 2007 of six misdemeanor criminal offenses in the State of Maine involving three separate incidents occurring in early 2006. The convictions were for Enna's criminal offenses involving his family, and included Falsifying Physical Evidence, Assault, Terrorizing, Criminal Threatening, and Violation of Protection from Abuse. For his six misdemeanor convictions, Enna was sentenced to a combined total of almost two years of incarceration (including time served), with probation for three years after his release. See Rule 8.4(b) of the Delaware Lawyers' Rules of Professional Conduct (providing that it is professional misconduct for a lawyer to "commit a criminal act that reflects adversely on the lawyer's honesty, trustworthiness or fitness as a lawyer in other respects").

At the time of his convictions, Enna was not engaged in the practice of law in Delaware.
